STOCKS BECOME DULL AND LOWER ON HEAVY PROFIT-TAKING AFTER SHARP RISE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 .- As every one PRICES TODAY ON expected, the market got under way with a full head of steam and sharp advances all through the list. The d not be denied. The shorts were scared prices on the leaders over $1 a share on the average, and then the insiders sold stock freely and checked the advance sharply, this stoppage being followed by recessions in which practically all of the improvement of the morning went by the board.

Everything came in natural sequence just as might have been, and really was, expected. The great bank state-ment on Saturday, real or manipulated, was the good and sufficient reason for

of the selling. ing that could be twisted to the aid of the bears, except the probable fact that the bank statement did not re-flect the credit position of Wall Street. From the West came glowing accounts of the satisfaction experienced by business men and railroad men, as well, over the condition of their business. Pittsburg reported a famine in Steel, in direct contrast to the late condition, namely, a famine in orders.

There was a repetition of the story that the Morgan interests had entered Copper for Copper's good. Public an-nouncement of the movement on the part of the Steel magnate is expected in the near future. It was rumored in some quarters that there would be further liquidation in New York Central, that there would be an increase in the dividend rate, and that a new stock issue would be announced in the near future or as soon as Pennsylvania had marketed a new issue. The best rumor in the three is the first. The passing of the Harriman interests as a probability in New York Central is the Wherefore.

hetter than the rest of the firsts in the late dealings. They are favorites with investors.

Industrials were nearly all strong early, and many stocks in this list held at least part of the gains throughout. Steel common jumped to 95, or 1½, and retired to 91½, a loss of ½. The preferred went back ½. Rubber was 1½, higher, Railway Springs ¾. Republic Steel ¾. Lead %. Copper ½ and Scienting ¾ higher, although the last gain was not maintained.

After the slump the volume of business gradually decreased, and during the noon hour was very moderate. Sohme further recessions followed, Steel common, going to 90½, and recovering to 90%, a net loss of 1½. Union Pacific touched 200¼, and recovered to 200½. Southern Pacific 123½ to 129¼, Reading broke to 163½. Toledo and Southwestern was 1½ higher. Some of the Southern and Southwestern shares eased off a little, out they were the strongest on the list. The volume of business after the noon hour did not improve much. The chances are for some short covering in the last how.

GOSSIP FROM WALL STREET

Harriman & Co.-Western traffic man agers are somewhat jubilant over the tonnage situation and the bus ness outtonage situation and the business out-look in general. Earnings are increasing steadily, reflecting the steadily increas-ing shipments of all kinds of freight. Business interests are as happy as the rail road people and foresee a great period of stable and sound business ac-tivity. ### GETS FIRST SIGHT OF A WOMAN

The superiority of truth over fiction crops out in the mutine news of the world every day. Minor happenings inconspicuous people, hold more of thrill and novelty than the labored inentions of the writers.

Here, for example, is the case of Ing camp somewhere in the interior of British Columbia, who had never seen a woman until he stepped aboard a steamer bound for Seattle. He is eighten years old. His prother died when he was a baby and he has since lived alone with his father in the wilderness of the north.

HAVANA, Cuba., Oct. 18.—As a pro-Ferrer demonstration against Spain, a general strike of workmen for a single day was declared this morning at Matanzas Almost every labor organization indors d the strike and practically all business is at a standstil.

he was a baby and he has since lived alone with his father in the wilderness of the north.

Imagine the comedy that can come out of this; the tragedy, too. Imagine what this boy wild think the first time he sees a girl in a directoire gown, chewing gum, and surmounted with a two-layer head frees, a massive pompadour, built up a foot or so and topped with a cart wheel hat.

Doubtless in the long vigils of the north his father has told him of the beauties of women, their grace, their simplicity, the compelling charm of them. And then to be confronted with the reality! The situation is too broadly comic for Gilbert, who would roake a fantasy out of the ignorance of the poor boy. O. Henry, knowing man and woman at first hand is the one to send out the requisite farce.

But there is the tragedy as well. The lad might fall in love with a harpy, who would so dislitusionize him respecting the goodness of the sex that he would be glad to fly back to his northern solitude. At whatever angle one looks at the affair, great possibilities arise.

And so far it is a sociological mataliance with a strike and practically all dusiness is at a standstil.
